PRESURGICAL/PREANESTHETIC BLOOD SCREEN RELEASE

Each surgical or anesthetic procedure has some risk involved (even though it may be small). Therefore, blood and organ tests are recommended before the anesthesia or surgery is done. The anesthetic agent is removed from the body by the liver and kidneys, so it is very important to know before administering anesthesia that these organs are functioning normally. Infection or anemia can reduce the proper functioning of the organs and can cause complications during surgery. If organ or blood abnormalities are found before anesthesia is administered, then appropriate steps can be taken to ensure the safety of your pet.
